

Andromeda's Cathedral

Andromeda's Cathedral is a structure located in Siofra River of The Lands Between. The Lands Between is the main world of a game called Elden Ring. The cathedral takes major inspiration from a nearby Colosseum owned by Mohg the Lord of Blood. Andromeda is a newly introduced boss who like his brother Starscourge Radahn and can control the stars. Yet Andromeda takes this a step further and can control galaxies. Thus they are known as Nebulascourge Andromeda. Andromeda's cathedral must be tied down to the Earth by chains as the stars drag it towards the heavens similar to the real life story of Andromeda or the "chained maiden."

The topography was sourced from Lofoten Norway as it has a very drastic change in elevation similar to Siofra River.

North Section

Siofra River

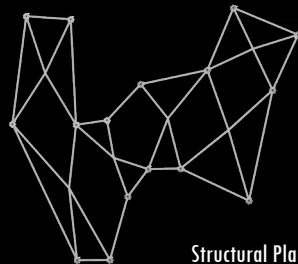

Lofoten Norway

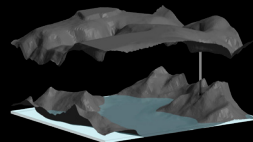

Conceptual Sketch

Structural Axon

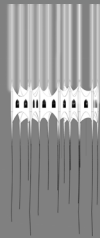

Structural Plan

Axon

Floor 1

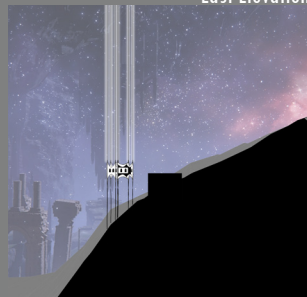

North Elevation

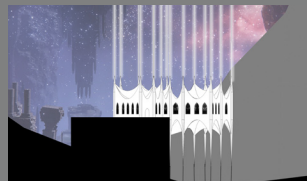

West Elevation

East Elevation

West Section

South Elevation

