

ARCH 565 JOURNAL

3/9/25

---

The structure that I chose is a basic timber column and truss system with beams for lateral structure. It stands on a square grid system but could be altered to something other than a square if necessary. This basic structure is all that is necessary for the form of the 13th century building at this point. I plan to investigate more into the details to see what secondary structural components will be needed to achieve the level of detail that I am pursuing.

ARCH 565 JOURNAL
3/9/25

ARCH 565 JOURNAL

3/9/25

