

ARCH565 | WEEK ELEVEN

KYLER OSTER

What really fluffs my feathers has to be the work Morphosis has been producing. Weather it is their unique take on form finding or their approach to funky facades, it just puts me in a tizzy. The way that some of the designs seem to organically flow with and among the landscape is mesmerizing. I enjoy looking at their technical drawings and how they custom build components in house for each project is very impressive. Many of their projects are international and some have won very prestigious awards. We had the opportunity to have Arne Emerson as a professor that co-instructed a studio here at Montana State. Arne is a partner at Morphosis and received his degree from Montana State. He brought a new design philosophy and energy to our studio.
